

Selecting Service Desk and Queue

After logging in using your JIRA Service Desk username and password, you will be prompted to select the Service Desk project you want to work with, and then a queue for that project.

You can change project and queue at any time from the Settings menu (accessed via the gearwheel button in the bottom right of the screen).

